LB Mayor resigns

By Bob Innes
Long Beach
Bureau Chief

After Long Beach Mayor Donnie Simmons stepped down from his 13 month tenure, Alderman Sam Maxwell and Mayor pro-tem was unanimously approved by the Long Beach City Council Tuesday night as acting mayor.

At the regular session of the council, the board moved to accept with "regret" a letter of resignation effective Aug. 1 from W. D. Simmons. In that letter, Simmons gave as a reason for resigning that his business, Simmons Steel Erection Co., "has progressed to the point that I cannot devote adequate time to it and my duties as Mayor of the city of Long Beach." Simmons further stated that in the best interest of city government and the citizens of Long Beach he should resign and allow a person with adequate time to assume this office and serve as mayor.

Immediately following the meeting, Maxwell announced to the press that he will be a candidate for the Mayor's spot in the special election September 14. Maxwell has served as Alderman and Mayor pro-tem of the City of Long Beach for the past 13 months. As alderman he served as chairman of the finance committee, personnel and purchasing committee and as chairman of the Public Health and Sanitation Commission.

Presiding over his first council meeting as acting mayor, Maxwell asked for discussion before voting on the letter of resignation. Alderman J. E. Moran said Simmons' resignation was "certainly a surprise."

In other city business the board voted to call a special election for a new mayor to preside for the remainder of the unexpired term. Accompanying that note of approval was a resolution stating that the special election as advised by Att. Gen. A. F. Summers should be set for Saturday September 14 and voting will be at all regular polls.

A candidate in the special election for mayor must pay a $50 qualifying fee and must announce his candidacy by September 4.

In other business, the council moved to amend Long Beach ordinance No. 254 concerning the sale of alcoholic beverages in the city. The amendment states that "all premise permittees will be allowed to sell alcoholic beverages from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m., seven days a week. But that no beverages will be sold between 2 a.m. Sunday and 10 a.m. Mondays. The action came after advisement by the ABC in its ordinance No. 298. The amendment went into effect Tuesday.

The board also set Aug. 27 as the date for a public hearing on changing a residential lot to light commercial zoning. The property owned by Mrs. Catherine Cooper is located at the corner of Klondike and Pineville roads.

Pass Christian Mayor Steve Saucier sent a letter of appreciation to the Long Beach Fire Dept. for their efforts in the July 24 fire at the Pass VFW home. Saucier's letter commended the department for the fast and efficient service rendered and that the home was saved from total destruction thanks to assistance from the Long Beach Fire Department.

To be acted on possibly at the next council meeting is a motion by Alderman J. E. Moran, who moved that the salary of the mayor should be increased because the job is a full time one. The motion was unanimously approved. At present the mayor receives a salary of $4,900 per year and according to Moran "perhaps a starting increase figure would be in the $9,000 bracket."

The council also voted to take an add in the Long Beach Rodeo program in the amount of $150.

Stennis is Chamber speaker at NSTL

U.S. Senator John C. Stennis will be the guest speaker at an annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, this year jointly sponsored by the Poyune and Hancock County chambers.

Set for August 23, the banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the main building at the National Space Technology Laboratory, formerly MTF, in Hancock County.

Tickets for the affair will be available Monday at the Hancock Chamber office on Highway 90. Seating will be limited to 350 so tickets will be available on a first come basis, a Chamber spokesman advises.

Supervisors set date for second bond election

County voters residing outside the Bay-Waveland municipal school district will once again be asked to approve a $1.5 million bond issue to finance construction of a new high school in the southern half of the county and improvements at the county's existing schools.

Hancock supervisors Monday gave approval for the second election to be held Sept. 7 only three months after the first bond issue failed by a slim 19 votes during the June 4 general election.

County school board attorney Joseph Gex presented supervisors with the board's resolution asking for a second election.

Proceeds from the bonds would finance a new high school in the Lakeshore community to offset overcrowded conditions at the county's sole high school north of Kiln, Miss. and in addition provide for a new gymnasium and other related facilities at Hancock North Central High School.

In another matter the supervisors endorsed a resolution offered by supervisor Jimmy Travirca supporting the proposal to locate an ammunition dump or Steel City at National Space Technologies Laboratories (MTF).

Several supervisors had earlier expressed some doubt and discontent over the announcement that the U.S. Army was considering utilizing the sprawling facility for such a venture and demanded that NASA relinquish the 120,000 acre buffer zone back to the county.

Travirca said Monday that U.S. Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) had telephoned his disappointment that the supervisors opposed the ammo dump site selection he had negotiated with NASA officials as part of a greater utilization program for the facility.

In other business the supervisors accepted a bid of $5,650 submitted by Crown Construction Co., Bay St. Louis, for a bulldozer for Beat Four and also accepted a bid of $1,220 for a Kodak sound motion picture projector for use by the Hancock County Senior Citizens. The board took under advisement two bids received from concrete box culverts for Firetower and Charles Moran Road and bids received for the completion of resurfacing several roads.

Bids from H.E. Wilson, Gulfport, included $15,303.55 for culverts for Firetower Road and $38,841 for culverts for Charles Moran Road. Marina Engineering & Construction Co. bid $15,319.36 for Firetower Road and $36,370.92 for Charles Moran Road.

The board also agreed to provide shells for a 150 foot driveway leading into the Crippled Children's Therapy Center located behind Annunciation Church in Kiln, Miss. and commended those individuals working with the center for their efforts to help disabled children.

Waveland to have police chief

by Dan Barber

In an effort to update the town charter, Waveland Mayor John Longo and aldermen Tuesday voted unanimously to abolish the elected, office of town marshal and to create separate and appointed offices for a chief of police and tax collector.

City attorney Lucien Gex, who drew up the changes in the charter at the request of Longo and aldermen, said that the changes were made in an effort to keep Waveland "abreast" of other cities in the state.

Presently the town marshal serves in a dual capacity as marshal and tax collector while the city secretary serves as tax assessor.

Under the new charter the mayor will be invested with the power to appoint both a chief of police and a tax collector with the advice and consent of the board of aldermen. The tax collector will also serve as assessor.

The changes will become effective after general elections this Dec. 3.

In other business the board adopted an ordinance "precluding" any person from keeping cats, dogs, or birds unless the animals created unsanitary conditions that were a nuisance to other persons.

Under the ordinance persons failing to comply with the new law could be convicted and fined not more than $100 or five days in jail. The new ordinance will become effective in 30 days.

A joint meeting between aldermen, Hancock supervisors, Bay St. Louis councilmen and Col. Tom Morris of Mississippi Coast Transit Authority failed for the second time to result in any action to establish MCTA bus lines in Hancock County.

Morris is asking that the two municipalities and the county expend a little over $17,000 for capital expenditures as well as pledge to underwrite an annual deficit operation of approximately $15,000.

The capital investment would only furnish the entire county with two buses which would likely operate a shuttle between the two cities and anywhere else in the county that the supervisors so deemed.

Morris admitted that MCTA could not cover much ground with only two buses and indicated that the county could acquire six school type buses that could operate solely in the northern part of the county.

Should Hancock County follow in the steps of Jackson and Harrison Counties, an express bus service would also be established between coastal cities within the three county area extending from Waveland to Moss Point.

Supervisor Jimmy Travirca said that the county could not consider any action until a full presentation of the proposal were presented before the complete board at a regular meeting and invited Col. Morris to do so.

Waveland and Bay St. Louis declined to take any action until further study.

In other business the board took under advisement a bid of $13,172 from Coastal Machinery Co., Gulfport, for a tractor and mower and accepted the bid of Melvin Burge for $400 for 227 feet of 11 gauge fence and $500 for 60 feet of 9 gauge fence to be installed at the city ball park.

In a last matter the aldermen refused twice during their meeting to purchase an advertisement from the Hancock Herald after appeals from publisher Ronald C. Gex.

Gex, who advertises his paper as the "voice of Waveland" said he was disappointed at the board's attitude.

News in brief

DELEGATE SELECTION PLAN

JACKSON — Governor Bill Waller has called for early passage of a bill providing for most political party delegates to be chosen by popular election during the next legislative session. The Governor said the measure also calls for holding a presidential preference primary in Mississippi.

The governor said, "Enactment of this delegate selection plan would trigger more grass roots involvement in the political process and help bring on a renaissance of political interests across the state."

The Governor joined 15 other witnesses appearing last week before a legislative subcommittee headed by Representative Stone Barefield of Hattiesburg, looking into potential changes in Mississippi election laws.

BILOXI HARBOR DREDGING

MOBILE, ALA. — Bids for dredging in Biloxi Harbor will be opened at the Mobile District headquarters of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers at 2 p.m. August 14.

The work will consist of dredging the main Biloxi Harbor channel to a depth of 14 feet over a bottom width of 150 feet, beginning at the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway and continuing through the East Access, Back Bay, and Cranes Neck Channels. The overall distance to be dredged is about 11 miles. An estimated 2,439,000 cubic yards of material will be placed in diked disposal areas.

NATCHEZ TRACE FUNDS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Senator John C. Stennis has announced approval of $5.4 million in obligation authority for new construction on the Natchez Trace Parkway in Mississippi.

The action by the Senate Appropriations Committee was the result of strong recommendations for increased funding made by Senator Stennis to the Interior Appropriations Subcommittee.

Also included in the Interior Appropriations Bill was a total of $63,000 to complete planning for restoration and display of the Civil War gunboat, CAIRO, at the Vicksburg National Military Park. On this matter, Stennis expressed pleasure that this historic project continues to receive support.

FARM PRICE DISPARITY

RULEVILLE — Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation president Hugh M. Arant has expressed concern over a wide disparity in prices paid by farmers for necessary production expense items which, he believes, border on price gouging and black marketeering.

Soaring farm production costs already are beyond the critical stage, Arant believes, made worse by a floodtide of overall inflation in the nation which is about to swamp Mississippi's leading industry — agriculture.

The problem affects all quarters of the state and all agricultural enterprises. And if the economic factors are not put back in place soon, a major recession looms ahead for Mississippi and other primarily agricultural states.

In recent days Mississippi's commissioner of agriculture and commerce, Jim Buck Ross, testified to an agricultural credit subcommittee of the U. S. Senate that since price controls were discontinued last year many agricultural steel items have increased 100 percent in price.

PUMP PRICE DROP

Governor Waller noted last week that efforts to focus public attention on high gasoline prices has caused a slight reduction in pump prices in the Jackson area, based on a survey of stations completed last week. Waller said the State Energy Office completed the survey of 117 gasoline stations that indicated that pump price averages for regular had dropped to 56.6 cents from the 57.2 cents average revealed earlier by an FEA survey.

The governor called for continued "selective buying" as an effort to bring prices down. However, he said, "I cannot totally fault the neighborhood dealers, because oil companies are now reporting profits of up to 300 percent."

Waller urged the Executive Committee of the National Governors' Conference, which recently met in Minneapolis, to take action to seek relief for electric consumers who are paying their electric bills at a rising rate. As a result, he was joined by the National Governors' Conference in launching a campaign to seek relief for electric consumers.

Port and Harbor to aid fishermen

"Hancock County fishermen are tired of being second class citizens," attorney Walter Ger, Jr. told Port and Harbor Commissioners at a Monday meeting in commission offices. The 100 member Fishermen's Association sent a delegation of 12 to the special meeting, seeking clarification of the commission's position on Hancock fishermen's needs. Ger, who accompanied the delegation, is legal counsel for the association.

Most of the fishermen at the Monday night meeting are scheduled to appear before a Congressional seafood hearing tomorrow at the Broadwater Beach Hotel. Hearings will be conducted by the Fisheries and Wildlife Subcommittee of the U. S. House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. U. S. Congressmen from Mississippi, Texas and Louisiana will join Cong. Trent Lott of Miss. in an exploration of Gulf Coast commercial seafood industry problems.

Marina is topic of meeting

An alternate proposal to the Washington Street site for a public marina will be discussed at an open meeting at Bay St. Louis City Hall August 13, 7:30 p.m.

Among those present at the meeting will be proponents of the new proposal, the city council and representatives from Burk and Associates, city engineers for the Washington Street site.

Preliminary design for the new proposal at Main Street and the beach provides docking for boats 25 to 40 feet in length, with a total of 108 boat slips. Also included in the design are four launching ramps, parking for 37 cars and trailer combinations, a sand beach, picnic facilities, and public rest rooms. The parking areas will accommodate 219 cars. About half of this parking can also be used for future downtown commercial expansion that would come with the marina.

The board indicated they would use three estimates received for refinishing the gym floor at Hancock North Central School as aid in advertising for bids next week.

The three estimates received were $4,574 from Fashion Floors, Gulfport; $3,462 from Barnett's Floor Service, Gulfport; and $4,306 from Lyles Carpet Mart, Gulfport. Each would remove the existing finish, apply a filler, new finish and repaint the gym floor.

The board indicated they would try to have the work done during school recess for Thanksgiving or Christmas if there were not sufficient time before the new school year began in September.

The board took no action on changing distances that school buses will travel to pickup and deliver children to their homes. Presently the buses will not travel any closer than three-tenths of a mile to a child's home in the morning nor any closer than five-tenths of a mile in the afternoon when returning.

State law states that buses may not travel further than one mile off established routes to pickup or deliver any child for school unless the child is physically handicapped.

In other business the board voted to hire David R. Ward as a physical education teacher for Hancock North Central Elementary School for the 1974-75 school year and accepted the resignation of Mrs. Linda Penton as a learning specialist teacher at HNC.

"(Fishermen) didn't come here tonight to criticize or argue," Ger said succinctly, "they only want to know whether or not their local boards are behind them."

"They'll want to know, also, whether the county is willing to support the fishermen—if it's not, they'll want to know why before the federal government will consider allocating funds for this area."

Mrs. Joyce Garcia, association secretary, reminded commissioners and two county supervisors present, that for more than a year fishermen have been appealing to the board of supervisors and the commission to provide more docking space and a better harbor at Bayou Caddy. Promises of possible federal funding and Corps of Engineers dredging have failed to materialize, she said.

A discussion of the Bayou Caddy facility revealed that present dock spaces are designated public and are used by sports fishing boats and small craft, leaving no available spaces for commercial boats to rent.

Facilities at the commission operated Bayou Caddy marina are woefully inadequate fishermen pointed out. Tommy Holzhauser, whose wife went to Washington, D. C. some months ago to bring the fishermen's plight to President Nixon, said that few people realize that the Hancock commercial fleet is bigger than the Pass Christian fleet.

The need for harbor and dock space is critical, harbor regulations by tying up Holzhauser said. Boats are three and four deep at now in jeopardy and violating (Continued on Page 3-A)

County closes door on outside students

Hancock County School Board shut the door, at least temporarily, Tuesday on accepting any additional students from Bay St. Louis city schools or from Harrison County.

The board voted to allow the approximately 75 students who presently attend Hancock North Central School from other districts to remain at the school but declined to accept others until further consideration.

E. E. Ireland, part-time employee of the board since retiring as assistant superintendent, said that some of the transfer students that the county was getting were rejects from Bay City Schools and Harrison Central. County schools will open their doors without making any further time changes, parents were also told Tuesday.

Board member Eric Larsen told three parents present

Tuesday that the county intended to remain with the present daylight savings time which was effected last November.

In other business the board accepted the bid of Pyron Ladner for $30.25 per month for garbage and tabled a bid of $5,200 received from Terry Feeney Contractor, Waveland, to tie sewage lines into the new sewage treatment plant at Hancock North Central School.

The board indicated they would use three estimates received for refinishing the gym floor at Hancock North Central School as aid in advertising for bids next week.

The three estimates received were $4,574 from Fashion Floors, Gulfport; $3,462 from Barnett's Floor Service, Gulfport; and $4,306 from Lyles Carpet Mart, Gulfport. Each would remove the existing finish, apply a filler, new finish and repaint the gym floor.

The board indicated they would try to have the work done during school recess for Thanksgiving or Christmas if there were not sufficient time before the new school year began in September.

La. teenagers arrested for arson in Bay incidents

Two Bay St. Louis youths were severely burned on Highway 90 and the Bay Youth Center was destroyed by fire Saturday in what police believe to be related incidents.

Shortly before 3 a.m. Saturday Bay police and fire departments were called to a spot on the highway where four Bay teenagers had been attacked by a fire bomb as they were driving west on the highway.

Admitted to Hancock General Hospital with severe burns were Henry LaFontaine, driver of the car and Ricky Mitchell, front seat passenger. Two other passengers in the car, Robert Douval and Eddy Delcastillo, escaped injury.

The four youths, all 17-years-old, told police they were camping on the beach at Cedar Point when two Louisiana juveniles approached them trying to sell narcotics.

When the local boys refused and left the site, they said the other two followed on the highway and tried to run the Bay youths off the road.

Near Washington St., as the pursuing car passed, an ignited gasoline filled soft drink bottle was thrown into the local car, drenching the two boys in the front seat with burning gasoline and igniting the inside of the vehicle.

A hospital spokesman said both LaFontaine and Mitchell had first, second and third degree burns on their faces, arms, hands, chests and legs.

Shortly after, about 3:15 Bay and Waveland fire departments answered a call on Ulman Ave. to find the Youth Center in flames. The frame building, which the fire department had condemned a year ago, had been burning about 20 minutes, Fire Chief Richard Fayard said. More than half of the building was destroyed. Also lost in the fire were some 70 cases of potato chips owned by J. C. Gonzales who had stored the merchandise in a back room, and 15 cases of soft drinks, belonging to the Jaycees.

The building, formerly a cafeteria for the city elementary school on Ulman Ave., had been sold to the Bay Jaycees a year ago. Dances and youth related activities had been conducted in the center under Jaycee supervision until it was condemned. The Center had not been in use for some weeks before the fire, a Jaycee spokesman said.

On information given to police by the Bay youths, two Monroe, La., juveniles were arrested in Covington about 5 a.m. Bay Police Chief William Carbonette and Assistant Chief Douglas Williams brought the 15 and 16-year-old boys to the Bay, where they were booked at the county jail and charged with arson.

Both incidents are under investigation by State Deputy Fire Marshal Norman Coward.

Rural mail routes extended

Senator James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) announced Friday a new policy the Postal Service claims will improve rural mail service.

"The Postal Service has informed me rural delivery extensions can now be made if there is at least one family benefitted for every one mile a rural carrier must go to serve the family and return to his main line of travel," Senator Eastland said. "In the past, a family had to live within seven-tenths of a mile of the rural carrier's route in order to receive rural mail deliveries."

of the city-county library commission to try and reach a unanimous agreement on choice of architect for construction of a proposed new library building.

Members of the commission were called to meet with supervisors after a suggestion by the July term of the Hancock Grand Jury that supervisors review the commission's recommendations of an architect.

Earlier, the library commission on a split vote had recommended to the supervisors that Bay St. Louis architect Fred Wagner be awarded the contract even though his fee was $3,100 above the fee of John Mykolyk & Associates, Pass Christian.

Another fisherman, William "Buck" Strong told commissioners and the two county supervisors at the meeting, "About $250,000 worth of fishing boats jam up every day at Bayou Caddy. If one caught fire they'd all go ... it would be disastrous." None of the boats is insured, Strong noted, as the fishermen can't usually afford the added expense.

In answer to a question from association president Arnold deSilvey on the feasibility of expanding the Bayou Caddy harbor, commission director Wilson Webre expounded at length on negotiations with the Corps of Engineers for dredging operations.

Webre said he had been named supervisory agent for the project in compliance with a Corps of Engrs. request. Before considering the project, Webre said the Corps required a preponderance of data on marine traffic and boat statistics which he said the fishermen would have to supply.

He also pointed out that a lack of communication and meetings between the two boards and the fishermen was holding up progress on the matter. "If we could have just gotten together like this before now," Webre said, "we could get a lot done."

Commissioner John Scafile assured fishermen that the commission "is behind you and wants to help in any way we can".

CHURCH GIVING
United Methodist Churches in the two Mississippi conferences together contributed $155,139 to Millsaps College during the 1974 fiscal year, report College officials.

The unrestricted gifts from United Methodist churches throughout the state from July 1, 1973, to June 30, 1974, topped the highest record of church giving in the history of the college.

The North Mississippi Conference gave $88,356, and the Mississippi Conference, $66,783.

DEATHS

MISS SELINA BARABINO
Miss Selina Barabino, 90, a lifelong resident of Bay St. Louis, died Wednesday, July 31 at Hancock General Hospital.

Miss Barabino had no immediate relatives.

Wake services were held from 8 to 10 p.m. Monday at St. Rose De Lima Catholic Church. Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday from the church with Rev. Borgia Aubespain, pastor, officiating. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Lockett's Mortuary, Gulfport, was in charge of arrangements.

of Engrs. data request was interrupted by Mrs. Garcia who asked that the meeting be expedited as, she said, "these men are losing money sitting here. They're missing the first 'drag' (open channel fishing) and must get out on the boats."

Turning to the commissioners, she said, "We know how Mr. Webre feels about the matter. He has made it very clear publicly and to individuals just what he thinks of the fishermen and their needs. All we want to know tonight is whether the commission is with us or against us before we address the congressional group. We have in the past taken out problems to the commission and have received nothing."

She offered two newspaper clippings from last year as proof that meetings had taken place between fishermen and the governing bodies.

"We were asked by the Congressional delegation to tell it like it is next Friday and that's exactly what we're going to do."

A dead silence following her remarks was broken by Commissioner Scafile who made a motion for the commission to recommend that county supervisors retain the services of an agency or a firm to conduct a study on a harbor and docking facility at Bayou Caddy. The motion carried unanimously.

County supervisors Jimmy Travica and Jerry Ladner had both taken an active part in the meeting discussions. Travica described numerous meetings he has had with officials of state agencies in attempts to bring some measure of immediate assistance to the fishermen. Both Travica and Ladner said they would do everything they could to assure favorable action on the part of the board of supervisors.

Supervisors plead ignorance over fowl

READY FOR TAKE OFF - this little fellow did a lot of flapping and finally worked out of the sand trap, which had been his home since birth.

by Bob James
Long Beach
Bureau Chief

It was in June when the Echo first made inquiries about help for the Least Terns, an endangered species, nesting on U. S. Hwy. 90 beaches in Long Beach and Pass Christian.

Nearly two months later, the two supervisors in whose beats the birds are nesting continue to remain apathetic towards helping in the preservation of the birds and their eggs during nesting season which ends in September.

Still standing by a reason for not becoming involved, Hue Snowden, beat 4 supervisor, said two months ago that by the time a resolution was passed and monies appropriated the season for nesting would have ended.

Contacted by the Echo two months later, Snowden didn't know that the season ends in September nor does Beat 3 Supervisor Bob Reed. Reed said, "Least Tern? What are you talking about? I don't know anything about any birds nesting on the beach."

Beat 5 Supervisor Arlan Robinson simply ordered signs made and erected several on Gulfport and Biloxi beaches, alerting tourists and residents of the Least Terns' occupancy. Supervisor Robinson is apparently more conservation minded than his beats three and four colleagues.

When asked what could be done to get signs put up, Snowden had this to say, "If your paper is so concerned about helping these birds I can give you the number of the purchasing department and if you put up a sign that would be fine with me. I've kept the maintenance equipment away from the beach and was asked simply not to maintain it."

While Snowden was out of town on a recent vacation, equipment was seen on the beach ready to start some clean-up operations, when several residents notified the Pass Christian Mayor's office. The mayor's office assumed responsibility for stopping equipment before any damage was done.

Snowden only said, "I haven't maintained that particular stretch of beach on my beat."

Since the season began the Least Tern area has had only the concerned residents of Long Beach and Pass Christian to help warn tourists and other residents to avoid the areas when walking along the beach. Those residents, realizing the lack, made a makeshift sign fashioned of wood and brown wrapping paper and have placed sticks in the sand depressions where eggs and baby birds are lying.

Some portions of the beach are beginning to take the shape of a marked mine field in a war zone, as increasing production of eggs and newly hatched birds requires an abundance of warning sticks for unaware beachgoers.

It appears that the two supervisors haven't bothered to keep abreast of the vital activities on their beaches. However, if the supervisors were on the job the necessary signs and precautions would have been made to warn unaware those beachgoers. Snowden made no indication in a telephone conversation as to whether or not any action would be taken. But if he follows the example he set two months ago, concerned citizens will be the only ones caring for the endangered species.

A LITTLE MORE LIFT and a lot more feathers will be necessary before a successful flight can be accomplished, this baby Least Tern discovered when he tried to fly. However, he managed to lead the Echo photographer a merry chase across the beach. He DIDN'T want his picture taken!

State commissioner raps federal agency

Public Service Commissioner John L. Dale, returning from a round of talks with officials in Washington, sharply criticized the Federal Power Commission for taking natural gas away from the electric generating plants in the south and sending the low cost generating fuel through pipelines to users in the northern and eastern states, thus requiring electric customers in the south to pay what Dale termed "absurd and unreasonable" fuel costs as a part of their electric bills.

Dale met in Washington with members of the Mississippi Congressional delegation and later conferred with the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Federal Power Commission. Dale stated, "I have done everything I know how to bring to the attention of our Federal Officials in Washington the absolutely intolerable situation existing in Mississippi as a result of uncontrolled fuel oil prices, and the diversion of natural gas for electric generation from Mississippi to the eastern states."

Parker said Monday that BOR had expressed favor toward awarding the funds if suitable leases can be secured from the beach front property owners. City attorney Joseph Gex is presently rewriting the lease agreements.

The park would comprise approximately three and one half acres of sand beach with another two acres of beach to be added later and would have a covered pavilion, picnic tables, playground equipment, a sun deck, and showers. A public pier extending from the foot of Ulman Ave. is being constructed by the county with funds from the Governor's Economic Council.

In other business Monday the city learned from county coroner Emile Piazza that it was being considered as a possible location for a state crime laboratory which would be operated by the state highway patrol.

Piazza told council members that the state might be willing to locate the first Gulf Coast satellite lab in Bay St. Louis if the city expressed interest in providing adequate space for the lab.

The state presently has only one crime lab located at its academy in Jackson. Piazza said that the state had appropriated $200,000 to equip a satellite lab and urged the council to offer vacant space at the Valena C. Jones Center in Bay St. Louis.

The council also voted to pay $9,029.44 interest on the $225,736 loaned by the Governor's Economic Council after Hurricane Camille.

City to reword leases

The city of Bay St. Louis must reword lease agreements with property owners affected by construction of a proposed city park at the foot of Ulman Ave. It was told Monday before approval for matching funds can be obtained from the state Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

James C. Parker, project planner with the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District (SMPD) in Hattiesburg, told councilmen that BOR would not consider anything less than a 25 year lease with affected property owners and preferably desired a perpetual lease. Such a lease would absolve property owners from any maintenance of the leasehold rights and require that the city provide constant maintenance.

Under a joint project with the county, the city is undertaking the application for 50-50 matching funds for the city park which would extend along the beach from Carroll Ave. to Bay View Court. The project is being planned jointly by SMPD and the Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

Parker said Monday that BOR had expressed favor toward awarding the funds if suitable leases can be secured from the beach front property owners. City attorney Joseph Gex is presently rewriting the lease agreements.

The park would comprise approximately three and one half acres of sand beach with another two acres of beach to be added later and would have a covered pavilion, picnic tables, playground equipment, a sun deck, and showers. ## Two comedies to open at Bay Junior Theatre

A melodrama and a comedy, both one act plays will be the summer offering for Bay-Waveland audiences this year by the Bay St. Louis Junior Theatre.

"Readin', Writin' and 'Rithmetic", geared to younger audiences, will open the evening's fare with a high school classroom scene that should delight students of all ages, with lines that every student wishes he could deliver in his own classroom. "Egad, what a Cad!", the second play, is reputedly the first comic melodrama to be produced by the Little Theatre in the Bay.

Melodrama is not to be missed, any time, anywhere. This one, cast with the older teens in Junior Theatre, promises an evening of absolute entertainment, complete with moustache twisting villain (the real thing), the shrinking violet heroine-with-a-past, the fair haired hero, the conniving Mother and dastardly deeds every five minutes.

Mary Carter is the director, who believes in camp and Mike Cuevas is producer of the rollicking duo.

Junior Theatre is an annual summer program for area teenagers sponsored by the Little Theatre organization. Young would-be thespians work backstage, on stage, design and execute all sets, make costumes, work lights and sound and learn a lot more than just theatre business. The rewards are great on both sides of the footlights.

The two one-act's will play August 16 and 17 with curtain at 8 p.m. A matinee will be held Sunday, August 18 at 3 p.m. at the theatre on Boardman Ave. in Bay St. Louis.

Prices for evening performances are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. Matinee prices are the same for adults and 50 cents for small fry. Don't miss it. It will be time well spent.

Photography exhibit to hang at Delgado

Opening Saturday, The New Orleans Museum of Art will present a photographic essay, "Natchez: A Pilgrimage," by New Orleans freelance photographer, Christopher R. Harris in the Museum's Print and Photography Gallery.

Born in Venezuela of American parents, Mr. Harris studied at the Rochester Institute of Technology and has covered assignments for many major news publications in the United States and Europe.

His current documentary series on Natchez, Mississippi, was formulated three years ago while on assignment for The New York Times to photograph events of that city's annual Pilgrimage.

Returning each year, Harris was fascinated by the intense devotion of the local Pilgrimage enthusiasts to preserving much of the unique Southern customs and charms of the past. Harris has commented that the townspeople "literally think they're living in the 1850's; the days when Natchez was the cultural Paris of the South."

The Exhibition will continue at the Museum through Sunday, September 8.

Sonfield is chairman

Robert I. Sonfield will serve as campaign chairman of the 1974-75 Symphony Fund, and Thomas S. Davidson will be vice-chairman for the Fund Drive, New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Society President Leon Godeaux II announced in New Orleans.

Sonfield, President of Maison Blanche, served as vice-chairman of last year's Symphony Fund Drive, and is a member of the Board of Directors of the Symphony Society. He also serves on the boards of International House, the Tourist and Convention Commission, the Chamber of Commerce, Touro Infirmary, United Fund, Loyola University and many others. Sonfield was vice-chairman of the United Fund Drive in 1971, and in 1972 headed that drive.

Four exhibits slated for New Orleans museum

The second half of a two-part series on one-person exhibitions of the work of artists recommended by Maurice Tuchman, Senior Curator of Modern Art, Los Angeles County Museum of Art, for purchase awards from the New Orleans Museum of Art's 1973 ARTISTS BIENNIAL will open on August 9.

The second series will feature recent acrylics by Richard Childers; paintings by Pat Colville, Assistant Professor of Art, University of St. Thomas, Houston; new paintings by New Orleans artist, Ida Kohlmeier; and acrylics by Edward Pramuk, Associate Professor of Art, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge. These four artists were selected from among 510 artists, living and working in the thirteen states of the Southeastern United States, who submitted over 1,400 entries to the 1973 Biennial.

A native of Texas, Richard Childers received his training as an artist from the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and the Northwood Institute. His work has been exhibited throughout the Southeast. Mr. Childers is affiliated with AUM Gallery in Dallas and Galerie Simone Stern in New Orleans.

Pat Colville received her B.S. from the University of Houston. She has participated in a series of shows in the Southeastern region. Ms. Colville is represented by Ars Longa Gallery in Houston.

New Orleans native, Ida Kohlmeier received art degrees from Sophie Newcomb College. Mrs. Kohlmeier has participated in numerous exhibitions nationwide. She has gallery affiliations in Atlanta, Houston, Washington, D.C. and Galerie Simone Stern in New Orleans.

Edward Pramuk received art degrees from Kent State University. He has exhibited paintings nationwide. Edward Pramuk is represented by Galerie Simone Stern in New Orleans.

These four one-person exhibitions will continue at the New Orleans Museum of Art through September 6th, concluding the presentation of the 1973 Artists Biennial Winners.

DeLisle artist featured in one man show at LB Library

Selected works of Pass Christian artist Bertha Giani are on display this month at the Long Beach Public Library.

A resident of the DeLisle community, Mrs. Giani is a native of Spanish Honduras. She studied design at the Collegio degli Angeli Treviglio, painting at Romano di Lombardia, Bergamo, Italy. In this country she studied sculpture under Jules Strupbeck at Tulane University and painting under Ida Kohlmeier and acrylics under Barclay Sheeks.

Known for her water colors and Mayan motif bas-relief plaques, she has had one man shows at Delgado Museum, New Orleans, Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Gulfport, Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian, Mississippi. She has participated in many group shows and her work can be found in institutional and private collections.

A long-standing member of the New Orleans Museum of Art, the American Federation of Arts, New York, and the Gulf Coast Art Association, she is presently Art Editor of Miss Gardener, official publication of the Garden Clubs of Mississippi, Inc., which won first prize in May 1974 at the national convention held in Boston, Massachusetts.

A peculiar bird, the goatsucker

The bird known as the goatsucker has soft feathers like an owl, a wide head, large eyes and a wide soft mouth with a very short bill which has bristles at its base.

The name comes from an old wives' tale that the birds milk goats because of the unusual structure of their mouths and because they feed (actually mostly on flying insects) near grazing animals at twilight.

Exit with dignity

It appears, after President Nixon's admission of guilt in knowledge of the Watergate break-in, made Monday afternoon over national television, that the infamous and now tiresome Watergate affair may be coming to an end.

It has been a long two years and will mark a most unpleasant era in this nation's history. Opinions on what should be the President's course of action now are as widely varied as those over the original Watergate incident. Seemingly, the President's opinion of the magnitude of the break-in and cover-up aftermath varies widely from those of the Supreme Court and Judicial Committee.

Whether he is absolutely right or absolutely wrong will probably never be completely resolved and resolution thereof could lead to another interminable series of investigations which this country can ill afford, financially, morally or politically.

The President's admission will probably open a second series of hearings, examinations, testimonies and the like which could bog down into a morass of exhausting and lengthy judicial processes.

It would seem to us that, at this point, the President's only recourse would be to resign his office, rather than to hang on doggedly and force impeachment proceedings which could destroy what little prestige this country has remaining in the eyes of the rest of the world.

By resigning, he could at least go out with dignity and some honor on the principle that he was doing what he thought best, under the circumstances.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

This is a sad little for America. Another smear, blacker than those of the immediate past, has been splashed across the facade of our government which will weaken and harass us for a lifetime.

And it was all so needless! The '72 election was already securely in the bag for the President when Watergate occurred—which may possibly lead some future historian to judge that, after all, the guilt really was the President's—for having a staff of such nitwits and small-calibre advisors.

As a matter of fact, it is very surprising that Mr. Nixon should have surrounded himself with executives like Ehrlichman, Dean, et al: brist, "smart", very sophisticated characters whose shibboleth was "cleverness". For many years we used to see scores like them on Madison Avenue and in the agencies, and we often envied them their self-confidence and cock-sureness. But had we been smarter, we would have noticed that not many of them actually got anywhere; after a period of rapid rise, their cogs began to slip, and we could name you a dozen who eventually settled for anonymity or obscurity because there was nothing solid and dependable in their characters.

It was Mr. Nixon's choice to depend on this coterie of young men, and they failed him. And in their fall they dragged with them older, and presumably wiser men like Mitchell and Moore. We used to work in a television station managed by Moore, and it is beyond our comprehension how the President could even look at, much less depend on, such a weak reed.

The result for Mr. Nixon has been disastrous; for the country, shocking. In the past the American citizen's biggest asset was his pride in his country and its leaders; today he is forced to apologize for the country's humiliation and the moral rotteness of many of its top leaders—and apologizing has never been an ennobling task.

But one good thing, at least, has emerged from this mess: the people's complacency with its elected officials has received a rude jolt. Perhaps we can even look forward to being represented by more reliable elected officials and fewer indictments by the grand juries for thefts, perjuries and other betrayals of public trust.

Local VA News

BY
Chester L. Curvey

A number of changes are to be made in the educational assistance programs administered by the Veterans Administration for eligible veterans and their dependents and survivors. Following are some of the changes which will be put into effect prior to the beginning of the 1974 fall semester, according to Chester L. Curvey, Veterans Service Officer for Hancock County.

Educational assistance programs are currently administered by the VA for veterans who served honorably during the Vietnam Era and the Cold War period, which dates back to February 1, 1955. Monetary benefits are also available to the wives and children of living veterans who are shown to be 100 percent disabled because of service-incurred diseases or injuries, and to the widows and children of veterans or servicemen whose deaths were the result of military duty.

Eligible veterans and dependents who attend a college or university this fall will receive an advance payment at the time of registration, providing the necessary paperwork is completed in sufficient time. The advance payment, consisting of the amount due for one full month plus that remaining portion of the month of registration, can be prepared and sent to the school. The eligible person may receive the check at the time of registration, thus having the funds necessary to pay tuition and fees required by the school.

Beginning with the 1974 fall semester, the VA will place Veterans Representatives on the campuses of the larger colleges and universities. These representatives will be available to assist veterans and other eligible persons who might encounter problems concerning benefit payments, and other matters pertaining to the educational assistance programs administered by the Veterans Administration. Those enrolled in a college this fall should contact the campus VA representative if assistance is required during the school term.

MISSISSIPPI SAFARI

Trent Lott

'President should resign'

The following statement was issued to the Echo Tuesday afternoon by U. S. Congressman Trent Lott in Washington, and came following President Richard Nixon's public admission of guilt in the Watergate cover-up, made Monday.

"My support of President Richard Nixon's basic program is a matter of record and I shall always be appreciative of the fact that he has been a friend to Mississippi.

My support of the presidency and all those institutions which have made this country great were made a matter of record in the recent judiciary committee proceedings. I have argued with all my being that we must consider first the best interests of our country in the long run and not just immediate political considerations. I argued that we could not impeach a president on the basis of frivolous charges and certainly not without drawing the line directly to the President.

"However, on Monday, August 5, the President by his own admission acknowledged his participation in a plan to cover up the Watergate break-in which goes to the charge of obstruction of justice. I have reviewed the transcripts of taped conversations between the President and his assistant, H. R. Halderman on June 23, 1972 which reveal that the President was directly involved even to the extent of using federal agencies in the cover-up.

"When I cast my vote against articles of impeachment in the House Judiciary Committee, some ten days ago, the evidence before the Committee at that time damaging though it may have been, clearly did not justify impeachment of the President. After receiving this new additional evidence I have cautiously re-evaluated my position and it is with deep sorrow that I have reached the conclusion that the President should resign immediately.

"All of the arguments I have previously used against impeachment now seem to be applicable to support Article One of the Impeachment resolution and I am re-evaluating my position accordingly."

5 YEARS AGO...
More than 320 children of the Bay St. Louis area flocked to the two matinee and two evening performances last week of the Children's Theatre production of BEAUTY AND THE BEAST.

10 YEARS AGO...
Richard Barthe, a Negro sculptor whose talents have earned him international acclaim in his field, received the top accolade from his home town of Bay St. Louis Tuesday afternoon when Mayor John A. Sealife presented him a key to the city in recognition of his accomplishments.

25 YEARS AGO...
Pistols bristled and blackjacks bulged Tuesday night at a meeting of Waveland's board of aldermen. Peace and order was maintained by Hancock County Sheriff B.D. Johnson and six deputies. Factional politics was the cause of the tension, particularly the question of who - the mayor or town marshal - should have the authority to appoint and direct law enforcement personnel within the municipality's government.

The Ford Motor Co. is arranging for a grand outing to Biloxi. A special train will be run out of New Orleans and three extra coaches will be put on for the accommodation of the passengers from Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, and Gulfport.

Our Readers Write

Dear Sir:
I am writing in regards to the protest march that I heard that the people of Bay St. Louis and Waveland put on against an ammunition plant going up in the buffer zone of N.A.S.A.

I can't help but wonder just what they were protesting about. If it is the idea of having an ammunition plant in Hancock County I would like to inform them that there has been an ammunition plant in operation in the county that they were probably not aware of.

I was working at the plant in the Kiln, in fact was there at the time of the terrible unfortunate mishap, and was made to evacuate my home for forty-eight hours not knowing whether I would have a home to come back to as I lived less than a quarter of a mile from the plant.

I am in favor of an ammunition plant, and was willing to work there. There are ammunition plants all over the country, which helps the economy. Why should Hancock County be an exception? Or is it that they are not interested in having industry here?

How many of those people who protested were directly affected by the explosion at Ingram, In? Or did they just sit at home and watch it all happen on their television?

If someone out there can answer my questions I would be glad to hear from them through this media.

Roberta (Bobbie) Thomas
Kiln, Miss.

Dear Editor:

A group of concerned citizens from Starkville tried to learn what our legislators mean when they repeatedly say, "Mississippi is a poor state."

We thought other voters would like to know what we learned.

(1) In 1974 our legislators voted to pay themselves a 62 percent raise for the 3 months they work in Jackson. In addition, they increased their expense allowance 50 percent. To take the pinch of inflation off themselves during the nine months "at home", they voted themselves a 110 percent pay increase (Senate Bill No. 2547).

(2) So that Mississippi will not rank 50th in all columns, they increased our governor's salary by 22 percent. (House Bill No. 832).

If that raise were in effect as you read this letter, then Mississippi's Bill Waller would be the SECOND HIGHEST PAID governor in the Southeastern Region and NINTH in the Nation.

(3) Other 1974 Legislative Salary Changes are as follows:

Lt. Governor - 76.5 percent increase; Highway Patrol - 70 percent increase; Chancery Judges - 36.4 percent increase; Circuit Judges - 36.4 percent increase; Supervisors - 46.2 percent increase; Sheriffs - 29.5 percent increase; Supt. of Education - 25.22 percent increase; Treasurer - 20.9 percent increase; Secretary of State - 19.1 percent increase.

There were many other legislative salary changes. The pay raises extend down through the county level. If you are interested in obtaining more information on salary changes write Heber Ladner, Secretary of State.

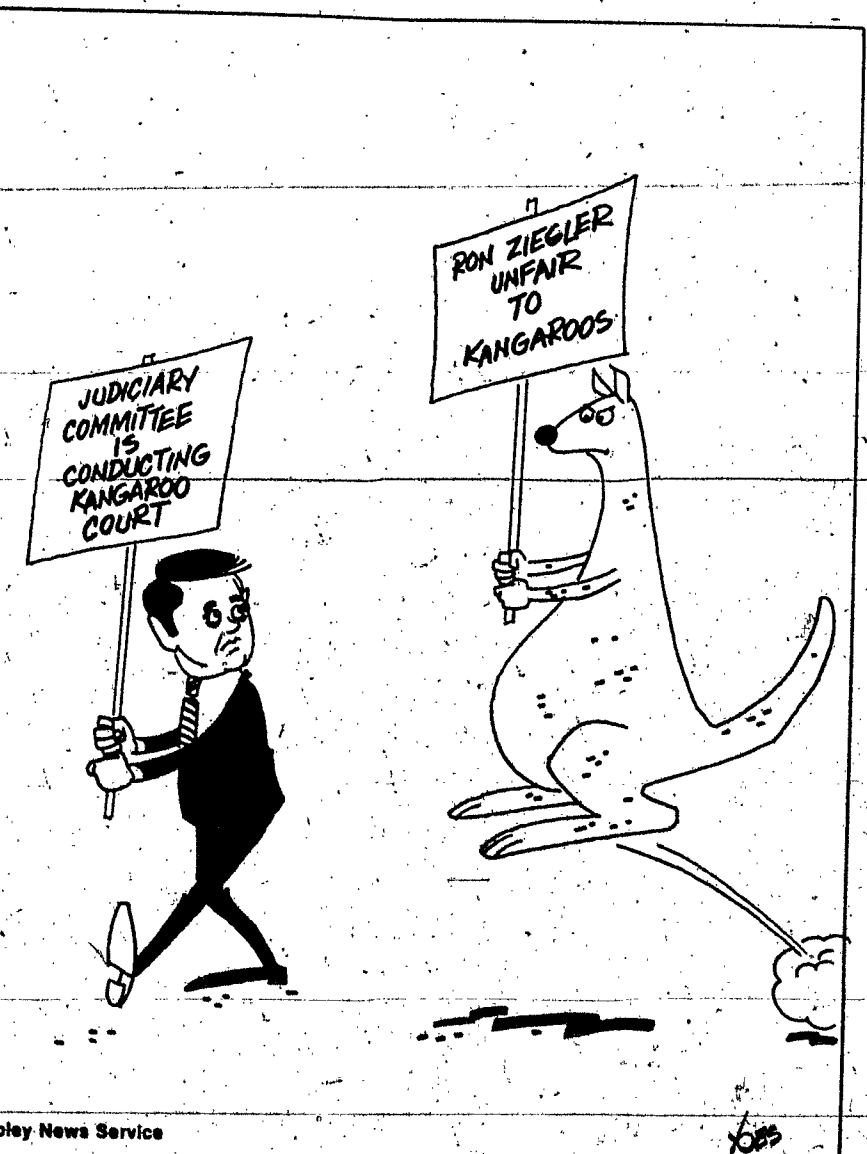

(4) Bills allowed to die on the calendars, in committees, and in conference with no vote taken: Ethics (reform laws governing the conduct of public officials, limiting of campaign contributions, accounting of campaign monies spent) competitive bidding on 16th section lands, property tax equalization, teacher pay raise and lower pupil-teacher ratio, and Highway Commission reorganization. There were others!

Yes, Mississippi is a poor state - POOR IN JUDGMENT.

Citizens of Mississippi, we, ourselves, must make Mississippi Go. It is self-evident that our leaders put SELF first and Mississippi - 50th.

Sincerely,
W. H. Whittington Jr.

Drugs and your health

by John F. Russell, M.D.

What is L.S.D.? It is an extremely potent, odorless, colorless, tasteless compound that was originally syn- thesized from a fungus mold that grows on grain. Since its discovery in 1936, however, it has been made chemically. When Sandoz Pharmaceutical Company made lysergic acid diethylamide it was pure, made under controlled con- ditions, for scientific research. Today it is made in private laboratories where purity and control are questionable. Because one ounce contains over 300,000 "trips" or doses, L.S.D. must be mixed with other ingredients. Often, as we said last week, it is this mixture which is more harmful than the actual L.S.D.

In the early 1960's when scientific research was being conducted with lysergic acid diethylamide, it was noted that the visual and mental disturbances it caused were very similar to schizophrenia. It was hoped that by using L.S.D. on humans, a better understanding and perhaps cure for this mental disease could be found. After the big scare about "chromosomal damage" research on humans was halted, and to this date, minimal research in this area has been done and no con- clusions have been reached.

What does it do? No one is really sure, but it is generally accepted that it opens up all the pathways to the brain so that everything comes in at once and gets confused.

Normally we block out many things. We don't see all of the little details as we look around nor do we hear all the background sounds of everyday life. We filter them out and see and hear only what we wish. But L.S.D. takes away the filters so that everything comes pouring in at once and sometimes even crosses over so that one can hear colors and see sounds.

Sometimes this is too much for a person to face and he ends up in a mental institution unable to sort everything out. Sometimes under the in- fluence of acid, the person believes he is all-powerful of god-like; sometimes he believes he is a tiny, useless speck in the universe, "worthless and undeserving of existence. One never knows what will happen under the influence of L.S.D.

In addition to the in- determinable actions of acid, the ingredients mixed with the acid can also influence the actions of the drug.

Strychnine is often mixed with L.S.D., not to kill user, but rather to strengthen the "body feel" of the trip. But when one considers that only a tiny pin point of pure L.S.D. is needed for a "trip", how can one determine how much strychnine is enough and how much is TOO much? Several weeks ago we were warned by the authorities in Mobile about LSD that was killing people because of the high per- centage of strychnine. This has been occurring more and more often of late.

Once physicians were able to abort a "bummer" by giving another drug to offset it, but this is no longer recommended. An aborted trip, it was discovered, in- creased the possibility of flashbacks. (Flip-outs oc- curring months later when no drug has been taken.) Also, because of the unknown ingredients, actual harm could occur by mixing drugs.

So the trip must now be played out, and once the drug is taken the actions continue for eight to twelve hours and one must simply go through the whole scenario from start to finish, whether good trip or bummer.

Because of these and various other reasons, the allure of LSD has weakened. Even without the scare tactics of chromosomal damage which were used several years ago, the usage is declining because of the question of poisoning.

Perhaps one day if the research is continued, a good use will be found for lysergic acid diethylamide in the treatment of mental illness or other diseases, but until scientists make such a determination, dropping homemade acid is playing Russian Roulette... the game of fools.

State Public Service Comm. files suit

The Mississippi Public Service Commission, acting swiftly in the wake of a recent meeting with Federal Officials in Washington, filed Aug. 2 with the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D. C., a formal petition seeking a reversal of the Federal order curtailing natural gas for electric generation in Mississippi.

Mississippi Public Service Commissioners Norman

Johnson, John L. Dale and D. W. Snyder this week sought an early hearing in Washington stating that "the act of the Federal Power Commission in substituting high-priced fuel oil for electric generation in Mississippi has placed an incredible hardship on the electric customers of Mississippi."

The Federal Power Com- mission in an earlier order excused gas pipeline com- panies from delivering natural gas to the electric generating companies in Mississippi and forced the electric companies to use more expensive fuel oil, passing the difference in cost on to the electric customers.

Mississippi Public Service Commission spokesmen said: "The Federal Power Com- mission, in taking natural gas away from the electric generating companies in the South, has caused electric bills to more than double in Mississippi. The Mississippi Public Service Commission has granted no increases in electric rates and has, in fact, denied several recent ap- plications for rate increases.

Although the Mississippi Public Service Commission has no control whatever over the Federal Power Com- mission, we nevertheless intend to carry the matter to a formal hearing in Washington as soon as it can be scheduled, hopefully in the immediate future."

The Public Service Com- mission is well aware of the many hardships resulting from high electric bills which is the direct result of fuel cost over which the Public Service Commission has no jurisdiction.

Mental Health director tours state

To learn what Mississippians want in mental health services, Dr. Reginald P. White, executive Director of the newly created State Department of Mental Health, is initiating a series of 15 meetings around the State.

The meetings, which are open to the public, will begin in Clarksdale on August 6. Meetings will be held in Gulfport August 13.

Stressing the need for public input into the Department, Dr. White said that "these meetings are designed so that we can listen to people throughout the State and absorb their comments before we begin to design programs in various mental health areas. We have to know what the public needs before we can institute responsible programs to satisfy those needs."

Accompanying Dr. White will be Mr. William E. Ready, former Chairman of the Mississippi Comprehensive Health Planning Council and past President of the American Association for Comprehensive Health Planning.

Dr. White emphasized the cooperation given him by the Mississippi Association for Mental Health through its Executive Director Chuck Brandon. Arrangements for the meetings have been made through the local chapter of the M.A.M.H. as a public service project to give Mississippians an opportunity to learn more about the new Department, its program and its goals.

In addition to the Mississippi Interagency Commission on Mental Illness and Mental Retardation, agencies which now comprise elements of the State Department of Mental Health include the Board of Trustees of Mental Institutions, the Mental Health and Alcoholism Divisions of the State Board of Health and the Division of Drug Affairs of the Governor's Office of Education and Training.

Brown baggers protest inflation

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

senting a true cross section of America."

Some economists have figured it out that if inflation continues to climb at its present 10 per cent annual clip, a restaurant lunch that costs $4 today will be pegged on the menu at about $40 to $46 by the year 2000.

Today's $3,000 auto would cost the buyer $36,000 by the turn of the century, the same economists estimate.

These and similar predic- tions of towering inflationary prices of the future may have something to do with the fact that more and more Amer- icans at every level of economic and social life are brown-bagging it nowadays.

"Take a brown bag to lunch" is the new in-saying. And, according to Swift & Co., the Chicago meat packer and subholding company of Esmark, Inc., also of Chicago, it's also becoming a noontime life-style for increasing mil- lions of office workers and executives as well.

Already the $2 lunch is a tender memory in most large American cities, especially if you preface it with a martini or its equivalent. So the brown bag is becoming a symbol of the protest against inflation.

Swift points out that "not too long ago, a few besides children and construction workers brought their lunch."

"Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches were tucked ten- derly in mini-sized kits for the former; corned beef and apple pie filled the heavy black metal boxes of the latter."

"Today," notes Swift, known for its ham-what-ram and other comestibles, "lunch toters are all ages and from all income brackets, repre-

At the risk of sounding as though it is promoting some of its own products, Swift says that today "the paper bags may house Thermoses filled with such inspired dishes as tuna casserole, fried chicken, quiche, lamb curry, meat- balls in tomato sauce, pate, artichoke hearts, vichyssoise, turkey amandine and shrimp salad."

However, the company adds swiftly, luncheon meats, cheeses and peanut butter sandwiches still are the time- tested brown bag standbys. Swift has its own ideas about why the gradual trend toward the grocery store shelf-type lunch, aside from skyrocketing restaurant prices. It lists these reasons for the brown bag's rising popularity:

It's a good way to diet. Pre- paring food at home wards off temptation for vending ma- chine sweets and snacks, or carry-out calories. Brown- baggers eat less, might even enjoy it more.

For those on doctor-pre- scribed regimens, the ar- rangement is ideal.

As for saving money, many office workers report a $40 to $50 a month cut in their lunch- time spending. For the execu- tive, of course, the savings would be a great deal more.

Bag-toting is a time saver. A quick lunch leaves time for a brisk walk or some window shopping.

Staff working luncheons frequently are more produc- tive than morning or after- noon sessions fraught with in- terruptions.

State agents arrest four in Hancock County

Three adults and a 12-year-old girl were arrested Friday in Hancock County by state narcotics agents, Harrison County authorities and Hancock County Sheriff Paul Bernard. The four were charged with possession of paraphernalia and marijuana with intent to deliver or sell.

The arrests came after Harrison County deputies notified Bernard acting on a report of a quantity marijuana stashed in a house on River

Rd. in Shoreline Park.

Armed with a search warrant Bernard and state agents Stephen F. Ford and Ronald E. Johnson along with Harrison County deputies arrived at the address about 11 p.m. After a search of the house and surrounding woods, the men arrested Danny Rose Bennett, 29, 394 Market St. and Mark Bobbins, 22 of 407 Morgan Ave., both of Pass Christian. Arrested from Long Beach were Joan Pierson, alias Joan

M. Babin, 22 of 162 Hometown Ave. and a 17-year-old female. All were held in the Harrison County Jail under $10,000 bond. The juveniles were released on a cash bond the next day.

Agents confiscated two boxes of plastic bags, six large bags of marijuana with about two pounds each, one bag containing 18 lbs. (about one ounce each) and one bag with 12 lbs. One of the men had a marijuana cigarette concealed on his person.

PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE Take a break — and meditate

By EDWARD NEILAN
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Corporations should junk the traditional coffee break and give their harried executives "meditation breaks" instead.

On company time, of course. A meditation break, or "relaxation response break," as Dr. Herbert Benson calls it, would help geared-up executives to relieve high blood pressure resulting from stress.

The effect would be an increased sense of well-being on the executive's part and he would function better. The techniques for this personal process of "cooling it" in the executive suite are similar to those usually associated with Eastern religions, according to Benson, a Harvard Medical School professor.

Humans possess an innate relaxation response, Benson said, which "appears to counteract the harmful physiologic effects of stress. It can be elicited by a simple mental technique."

One good thing about the system is that there is no need to hire a turbaned yogi from Bangladesh to supervise the meditation periods. It is a do-it-yourself process all the way.

So prevalent is hypertension, or high blood pressure, that "many cardiologists feel that we are in the midst of an epidemic," said Benson in an article in the July-August issue of The Harvard Business Review. Hypertension, he said, "is one of the important factors — if not the most important — predisposing man to heart attack and stroke. These diseases... account for more than 50 per cent of the deaths within the United States."

The cure: "Relaxation response" elicited intentionally through meditation. "This will slow down the body's metabolism, the heart rate and the rate of breathing," Benson said.

Benson suggested in his article that go-go executives meditate for about 20 minutes, twice a day. He prescribed the following technique:

— Choose a quiet environment with few distractions.

— Pick a one-syllable word or phrase to repeat.

"one" — and repeat it each time you breathe out.

— Assume a passive attitude toward your meditation. Don't worry whether you're meditating properly. Such worry defeats the purpose of the exercise.

— Sit in your favorite, most restful position.

Other hints suggested by Benson: "Closing the eyes, the meditator begins by deeply relaxing all his muscles, working from the feet upward."

"He breathes in through the nose, repeating his syllable — 'one' — as he breathes out. Afterward the meditator will sit quietly for a few minutes, with his eyes closed, then with them open."

Benson reported that subjects with hypertension who gave meditation a try showed a "statistically significant change" in blood pressure. "From what is considered the borderline hypertensive range to the normal range of blood pressure."

Subjects who give up meditation after showing some progress, revert to the higher blood pressure levels they had before meditating, Benson said.

Benson said that just as too much medication can have harmful side effects, so, too, can too much meditation have detrimental results.

"Excessive meditation — many hours a day for a period of several days — may result in a withdrawal from life and may cause such symptoms as insomnia or hallucinatory behavior," Benson said.

May start pier this month

Waveland contractor John Hayward, who Monday was awarded a contract to rebuild a public pier at the foot of Ulman Ave. previously destroyed by two hurricanes, expressed hope that work on the 1,200 foot pier could begin sometime this month.

"I'm as anxious as anyone," Hayward said Monday following acceptance by county supervisors of his bid of $58,844.36.

The pier which was damaged initially by Hurricane Betsy in 1965 and destroyed by Camille in 1970 is being rebuilt by Hancock supervisors with funds donated by the Governor's Economic Council.

When completed it will be part of a joint effort by county supervisors and Bay St. Louis city fathers to create a four-acre city park extending from Carroll Ave. on the south to Bay View Court on the north.

The pier and a shelter area will be focal points of the park which will be called the Ulman Ave. City Park.

It only remains now for supervisors to issue a work order before preliminary work can commence on the pier.

Hayward said he believed it would take two to three weeks to process material needed for the pier. Piling for the pier must be brought from Gulfport.

Site plans for the park, which will be funded by a 50-50 matching grant from the state Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, are being developed through the joint efforts of the Southern Mississippi Planning & Development District and Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

Teacher of the deaf degree program fills educational void

A new graduate degree program - designed exclusively to fill critical teacher-of-the deaf vacancies in schools of Mississippi - will open this fall at the University of Mississippi.

The Department of Communicative Disorders graduate program will be the first of its kind in the state with a "content for national certification," according to Dr. Thomas J. Wentland, chairman of Communicative Disorders. Purpose is to supply teachers for thousands of the deaf who "are wasting away and increasing the welfare state because of lack of education," he said.

There are 4,500 deaf children in the state, according to recent figures published by the Special Education Office of the State Department of Education. Hard of hearing children number 9,750. But there are only 14 certified instructors in the state.

"There is quite a need," Dr. Wentland said. "Deaf children have essentially the same needs as the normal child."

The program will have two educators of the deaf who are specifically trained in the field of teaching others to teach the deaf. One of the professors will be a "master teacher," who will set-up a demonstration classroom in connection with the Lafayette County Public Schools.

"This way we will have a demonstration class for Ole Miss students in the program and also will be serving deaf children in the area," Dr. Wentland said.

"We are recruiting students from various undergraduate backgrounds," he said. "With graduate degrees in teaching the deaf and specialized undergraduate degrees, they will be more effective teachers of the deaf."

One of the students who already has expressed an interest in the program is an undergraduate music major. "And why not?" Dr. Wentland asked. "Deaf students enjoy singing and tapping their feet just as much as normal students."

"We are particularly interested in recruiting black students, because 80 percent of the deaf in the state are black. There's no substitute for black teachers relating to black children, and we need more black professionals in the field."

Dr. Wentland hopes to add a registered interpreter for manual communication in case there is a deaf person who wants to teach the deaf. "We are trying to get people who will commit themselves to serving the children of Mississippi; this is interesting, exciting and rewarding work with an unlimited future."

Family scholars

Mrs. Janie Languirand of Bay St. Louis followed her son to college this summer — but not because she is a protective mother. Mrs. Languirand, one of 91 teachers to receive a special National Science Foundation Fellowship, is working on her Ph.D. degree in physiology, while son M.J. is working on his master's degree in Biology.

College parallel classes scheduled at PRC

College parallel academic classes, primarily for adults, will be offered this fall at seven local centers within the Pearl River Junior College district.

Enoch Seal Jr., Pearl River dean, made the announcement after surveys indicated a demand for academic adult education on the local level. Seal stated, "In keeping with the PRC policy of fulfilling the needs of our district, we will make available any one, two, or three hour course, that is offered during the regular session at Poplarville."

Seal said, however, that a minimum of 10 students in each class is required, before the class can form.

Cost of the classes will be $10 per semester hour plus a $5 registration fee. A $4.50 charge for use of machines will be required for typing and shorthand students.

Organizational schedules for the seven local areas include:

Picayune — Thursday, August 8, at 6:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Bay Saint Louis — Monday, August 12, at 6:30, at the Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center.

Purvis — Tuesday, August 13, at 6:30 p.m. in the high school library.

Poplarville — Wednesday, August 14, at 6:30 p.m. in the Pearl River Junior College Science Building, room 108.

Columbia — Thursday, August 15, at 6:30 p.m. in the junior high library.

Prentiss — Monday, August 19, at 7:00 p.m., at Prentiss High School (will not offer typing and shorthand).

Sumrall — Tuesday, August 20, at 7:00 p.m. at Sumrall High School.

For more information call the PRC Director of Admissions at 795-4558.

Mrs. Harrison selected by national program

Mrs. George Harrison, an area civic leader, has been selected for inclusion in the Outstanding Young Women of America for 1974, according to Paul Reeder, director for the national awards program.

Young women selected are now being considered for further state and national awards. This fall, 51 of the young women nominated for the Outstanding Young Women of America program — one from each state and the District of Columbia — will be named as their state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year. From the 51 state winners, the national Ten Outstanding Young Women of America for 1974 will be selected. These national winners will be presented at a special awards ceremony to be held this fall in Washington, D.C.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program was conceived, and is today guided, by leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. The program's Board of Advisors, headed by Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, is composed of the national presidents of leading women's clubs. Mrs. Arnold is honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The purpose of the Outstanding Young Women of America program is to recognize young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their exceptional contributions to their professions, communities and their country. Nominations for this national awards program are made by women's organizations, churches, alumni associations, and individuals throughout the country who have firsthand knowledge of their nominees' abilities and achievements.

A complete biographical sketch of each nominee is included in the annual awards volume, Outstanding Young Women of America, which contains special introductory messages from such personages as Constance B. Newman, Consumer Product Safety Commissioner; Jen Mooney, Asst. Vice-President, First National Bank of Montgomery, Ala., and Barbara Jordan, U.S. House of Representatives.

Bay teacher is awarded NSF Fellowship

A Mississippi school teacher has been awarded one of only 91 National Science Foundation Fellowships in the nation to study the application of science to society's problems.

Mrs. Janie Languirand of Bay St. Louis was notified this month of her selection as Mississippi's sole recipient of the NSF Faculty Fellowships in Science Applied to Societal Problems. Award winners — who will share $1.5 million in funds — were selected from a field of 683 applicants.

Carver named to Dean's List

Dennis J. Carver, a native of Bay St. Louis and a student at Loyola University in New Orleans, has been named to the Dean's List of the College of Music for the 1974 Spring Semester.

According to Dr. Joe B. Buttram, dean of the college, a student must earn a 3.5 quality point average or better for the semester to receive the distinction.

Loyola University, with almost 5,000 students, is the largest Catholic University in the South. Founded by the Jesuit fathers in 1912, the University presently consists of the colleges of arts and sciences, business administration, music, law, graduate and evening divisions. Courses in a variety of disciplines are offered, including degree programs in criminology and communications.

Christ Episcopal starts Vacation Bible School

Rev. Charles Johnson, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, announced this week that Vacation Bible School would be held at Johnson Hall, August 12 through 16.

"Our Vacation Bible School," said Father Johnson, "is not just for the youngsters of Christ Church, but for any children up to the 6th grade."

Registration will be held in the Conference Room of Johnson Hall on Monday, August 12 from 9 until 10:30. Mrs. William Gaudet has been named to head up the School.

A chemistry and biology teacher at the Jeff Davis branch in Gulfport of the Gulf Coast Junior College, Mrs. Languirand is carrying out her fellowship studies at the University of Mississippi this summer and for the next two summers. While at Ole Miss, she hopes to complete course work for the Ph.D. in physiology.

"The fellowships are designed to help faculty members broaden their perspective in the applications of science to societal problems," said Dr. Lyman Magee, chairman of the Department of Biology at Ole Miss.

Purpose of the NSF awards is "to help two and four-year college and university science teachers increase their competence in areas concerned with our nation's societal problems and their possible solutions," a spokesman said.

Mrs. Languirand has selected two societal problems on which to concentrate her studies while an NSF Fellow:

Mary Ritter to Quitman

Mary L. Ritter, Long Beach summer graduate at the University of Southern Mississippi, has accepted a teaching post in Quitman.

She majored in elementary education, receiving the B.S. degree. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ritter, 940 Pittman Drive.

Miss Ritter was a President's and Dean's List scholar, and a member of Delta Zeta social sorority. The USM Placement Bureau assisted her in obtaining employment.

Peel 'n eat

Young Canadian Explorer Scouts learn to "peel 'n eat" boiled shrimp with assistance from Mrs. Lucien Gex, Jr., right, of Waveland, and Al Rushing, of Biloxi, vice-president and president respectively of the Gulf Pines Council Board of Directors, which recently hosted an International Day in honor of the visiting Scouts. Harrison County and Biloxi officials honored the youthful visitors who camped for the week at the Gulf Islands Natul. Seashore Camp near Ocean Springs.

Canadian Scouts 'learn from people' in Biloxi

Gulf Coast citizens joined with Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council July 25 in hosting an International Day in Biloxi for 17 young adults from Canada, boys and girls ages 18-19, who are members of Canolou, Les Catholiques Du Canada.

The Explorer Scouts, all residents of Ottawa, Canada attend an all Catholic high school Ecole Secondaire Charlebois in Ottawa which educates approximately 1,300 students in grades 9 through 13... one more grade than those in our United States high school. Accompanying the group were three teachers and sponsors: Sister Maureen Powell, C.N.D. (Congregation of Notre Dame); Mrs. Lucille St. Clair and Marc Andre, leader of the group.

Prior to coming to the Gulf Coast for a week, the group had spent two weeks in Lafayette, La. teaching French to young children in summer programs, in an "experience in learning" program. Sister Maureen stated the purpose of the endeavor had been a total learning experience from many standpoints; communicating; teaching their language; learning colloquial expressions from the Lafayette people. and Mississippians; re-evaluating personal goals and needs; learning to live with other people in unusual circumstances.

In Lafayette the young adults were resident-guests of individual families of the area on a one to one basis; in the Gulf Coast they camped in tents at the Gulf Islands National Seashore Magnolia Camping Area.

The entire endeavor began over a year ago when several of the students discussed with Marc Andre, their physical education teacher, their desire to "learn from people and living". The group began an organized endeavor, working together during and after

Carver in co-op education program at State

Michael Jerome Carver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford J. Carver of Bay St. Louis, is participating in the Cooperative Education Program at Mississippi State University. The 19-year-old electrical engineering major is currently in his freshman year at the university.

Carver is working toward his B.S. degree and at the same time is working with Coast Electric Power in alternating semesters.

The Cooperative Education Program is a five-year educational program which allows a student in various fields of agriculture, arts and sciences, business, education, engineering, and forestry to affiliate with a business or industrial firm while enrolled at State.

By combining practical experience with theoretical training, this program provides the student with a superior educational opportunity, according to university officials.

Upon completion of the course of study, Carver will begin full-time work with his cooperating firm or will join another organization which demands his specialized training.

Waveland residents urged to clean up

James Schott, teenage chairman in charge of Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up Week for Waveland, this week urged that all residents of Waveland do those things about their houses and yards which they have been promising themselves but never doing. "Let everybody," Schott said, "make a firm determination that during the week of August 12 through 17 we actually do those little things we have been putting off for so long. It could be mending a fence, fixing a broken door, pulling up weeds, doing some spot painting and the like. If we all do it, then we will really make a change in Waveland in one week."

Schott also revealed that he had named Bob Warner, Jr., Carl Schott, Lee Tilton, Eric Schott, Beverly Ogden and Edie Charbonnet on his committee.

He suggested that the City of Waveland see that Coleman Avenue and the parking lots on it be swept up and also that owners of all vacant lots on Coleman Avenue have the grass cut and the lots cleared of all debris.

Schott said he would like to see the supervisors clean up the entire beach and, if possible, put in a series of parking bays on county right-of-way lands along the beachfront property so that visitors could park without fear of getting stuck in the sand.

Altar Society by-laws discussed

Humane Society to meet Aug. 13

Members of Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., will meet at 7:15 p.m. August 13 at Gulf National Bank, Highway 90. The group will then proceed to the Ken Garrison home, Gull Street, Bay St. Louis, for a meeting at 7:30. Important matters, including membership, will be discussed. All members are urged to attend.

St. Ann's Altar Society met Monday night at the rectory with Mrs. Frank Corcoran, president, conducting the business session. Father Canisius Hayes, pastor St. Ann's Church, offered the opening and closing prayers. Mrs. David Caillier, new member, was welcomed by the group.

It was noted that the recent weiner roast at Buccaneer Park was a success. Mrs. Corcoran appointed a committee to write the constitution and by-laws of the Society to be presented at the September meeting.

The monthly luncheon-social was scheduled for noon Wednesday, August 28 at the Parish Hall. Donation will be $1.25 per person. The public is invited.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. September 9.

Celebrities to assist

HATTIESBURG—A new approach to football broadcasting will be on tap when the Golden Eagles Radio Network goes on the air Sept. 14 for the 1974 season.

Departing from the traditional 'color man' concept, to assist the play-by-play announcer, 'Southern' will use the 'guest celebrity' approach with a different guest, or celebrity each week.

Eleven sports personalities will make up the list of celebrities sharing the voice of the Golden Eagles, Bill Goodrich. The list includes nine members of the USM Sports Hall of Fame, one member-elect for the National Football Hall of Fame, and an outstanding football official.

The state playoffs along with Talley House.

The Bay St. Louis team opened the first two days of the South district play looking like they were going to run away with the whole thing undefeated.

The Bay boys defeated Gulfport Paper 16-5 and Goodyear (Pascagoula) 13-3 on Saturday before knocking out Barron-Leggett (Pascagoula) 18-12 and Talley House 5-4 on Sunday.

In the finals Monday Ladner's had only to beat Talley House once more in the double elimination tournament to win the district title but found the Gulfport team uncooperative the second time around.

Russell resigns PRC post

POPLARVILLE—John T. Russell, head coach at Pearl River Junior College, resigned his coaching position this week to accept a position with the Fidelity Union Insurance Company of Hattiesburg, according to PRC president Marvin R. White in a Wednesday morning statement.

Russell, who had been a member of the PRC coaching staff since 1960, led the Wildcats to two state championships in 1969 and 1970 during seven seasons as head coach and had the Wildcats ranked nationally in the top ten each of the last five years.

A spokesman said Monday no successor had been named although an administration and board decision was expected soon. Remaining assistants Harvey Seligman and Herbert Morris are presently preparing the Wildcats for the 1974 season.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

Outside of a few showers and warm weather fishing conditions have been pretty good for the past week and prospects for the coming week also look good with favorable tides.

Bass and perch are still being caught up Jourdan River and all over Pearl River and its tributaries. The night Pearl's water is clear and the fish are being caught most everywhere. Fly fishermen and casters reported some good catches over the week. Several large bass were caught.

On the salt water side some specks and reds are still being caught as well as sheepshead and other salt water fish. A day's fishing can be enjoyed most anywhere along the beach from Cedar Point to Bayou Caddy. There are plenty places to go like Dunbar Avenue, The American Legion Pier, the new jetty at Coleman Avenue and at Bayou Caddy. Casting rods and spinning rod fishing is an easy way to catch fish and furnish a lot of fun. Some hard crabs can be caught while fishing off the seawall. All go for putting seafood on the table.

There are no soft crabs being caught that we know of. Better chalk up this year as a bad one for soft crabs. Flounders are not too plentiful either.

Bud Thomas underwent surgery last week. Doing okay, he said.

A couple who really likes all kinds of fishing as well as crabbing is Bob and Vicki Clark, who reside in Discovery Bay on Blue Meadow Road. They do most of their fishing at Bayou Caddy and Clermont Harbor, catching flounders, red fish, speckles and of course lots of croakers. They fish mostly with dead and live shrimp, also cut bait.

Cut bait, if you don't know it, are small fish that are caught and cut in small pieces. It is excellent for flounders, croakers, and ground mullets as well as white trout and fresh water cat fish, rather tough and stays on a hook longer.

Coming up again is the 1974 Empire South Pass Tarpon Rodeo at Empire, La., on August 22, 23 and 24. A number of folks from this section attend this rodeo and especially Charlie Prest and his wife who have attended the rodeo for years. Charlie said if you are a fisherman and love to fish there is no better rodeo than this one. So listen to Charlie and be on hand at Empire.

Doctor Phillips of Moorehead, Miss., is a real sport. Doc loves to hunt doves and quail and does bass fishing. Comes down to the coast, especially Bay St. Louis quite often to visit relatives.

Jos. Matranga, who lives at Diamondhead does most of his fishing at Empire. You can bet he will be there for the Rodeo the last part of August.

John Ristroph of Plaquemine, La., Clifford Comeau and B. (Junior) Goynes of Baton Rouge with Luke Elliott came down Saturday to enjoy some bass fishing out of Pearl River. Yours Truly fished with them.

All are ardent fishermen and know their business when it comes to casting and fly fishing. They are experts with a rubber worm. A nice catch of fish returned home with them. The men were high in their praise for fishing on the Gulf Coast and the Mighty Pearl as a fishing spot. They said that if God made a more beautiful spot for fishing he must have kept it for himself.

This is good news for those fishermen who fish Jourdan River. We all know that fishing in the Jourdan has not been what it used to be.

Sam Morse, coast representative for the Miss. Fish and Game Commission, wishes to meet and discuss fishing in the river with local fishermen. He will be here the latter part of the week to discuss restocking the area with fingerlings to grow and reproduce. Mr. Bateman has been requested to make a basic research of the river. Fishermen are urged to contact Mr. Morse and give them their personal knowledge of fishing in the river. With this detailed basic research the experts should be able to rejuvenate fishing better than ever.

MRS. JUNE COFFEY ACCEPTS DELIVERY OF HER 1974 EL CAMINO FROM VETERAN SALESMAN FRITZ PERANICH AT TURAN-LANE CHEVROLET.

Mrs. Coffey was interested in buying an El Camino, so she shopped around and then visited Turan-Lane Chevrolet and spoke to her long time friend Fritz Peranich. Mrs. Coffey found just the vehicle she wanted and also got a very good deal from Fritz and Turan-Lane Chevrolet. Veteran salesman Fritz Peranich has been selling new cars in Bay St. Louis for many years and he is proud of the fact that many of his customers contact him when they are in the market for a new car or truck.

Two local fresh water self-proclaimed fishermen, Johnny Scaife and Alden Maufrey as well as others are very interested in the research study being made by the Fish and Game Commission and urge all sportsmen to cooperate with this study.

One of the best fish stories brought to my attention was told by "Gus" Elmer of the Kila community. He is proud of Hancock County and its fishing potential so he told me confidentially one of his personal experiences in fishing in this area. He caught a fish so large that his only way to land it was to sink the skiff, float the fish across the boat. No way to boat large fish otherwise.

This is unquestionable, but supposedly true. Gus is one of our most ardent fishermen in both fresh and salt water fishing.

Plans are being made to bring the Sea Explorer Ship, Moler Vessel No. 770 from New Orleans to Bay St. Louis the end of August. The ship is 70 feet long, draws 5 1/2 feet of water and has a crew of six men and 18 boys 14 to 16.

The boys will spend the weekend and expect to have a cookout and beach party with 18 local girls as their guests. This is part of the Sea Explorers program. Hank Irwin formerly of the Bay will be with the group.

Three of our great-grandsons, Mark, Matthew and Marshall Daniels of New Orleans attended the Knights of Columbus La. State Council Youth Camp Program, at Maryhill Youth Camp at Pineville, La. this week. The boys had a wonderful time and participated in all sporting activities. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Daniels.

Vic Carver, Clois Dedeaux and Roger Dedeaux wading on the beach at St. Charles St. caught 22 nice speckles Sunday morning. They were hitting pretty good, Clois said.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Auerbach were catching fish off the American Legion Pier Sunday. They are from New Orleans and come over every weekend. They are ardent fishermen.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hasse who have a home on Hancock St. were among those fishing off the Legion Pier. Been catching a lot of fish, they said. They fish and do crabbing.

Frank Emery is out of the hospital again and doing pretty good, he said. Frank is waiting for cooler weather to start fishing again. He does mostly fresh water fishing and knows his stuff at catching them.

Read where John M. Sibley, Jr. has been named president of the First Progressive Bank of New Orleans. He brings years of experience to his new position. He has been in the banking business a long time. John is a real sport. Doesn't do much fishing.

Fun comes back to basketball

LOS ANGELES — The cheeks are flushed with some of their former color. The sparkle has returned to the eyes. Even the step seems to have most of the old bounce back in it.

John Robert Wooden, age 63, looks relaxed and healthy once more.

And coaching basketball has become fun again. For much of the last few years it hadn't been that way. Despite the long succession of national championships. Despite the Pavilion-full of trophies and pennants and individual honors. Even despite a record that will probably never again be matched in the history of his sport.

You see, there was something called pressure. Lots of pressure. All kinds of pressure. There were new generations and new ideas and new problems with which to cope. And there was a fickle public that no longer understood how UCLA could lose a basketball game.

Most of that is over now. The Bruins finally fell in the NCAA tournament. Bill Walton turned professional. And the expectations are no longer so great.

Wooden will have a fresh, new group with which to work in suburban Westwood. He won't have a superstar center. But then, sometimes it seems as if he prefers it that way.

In an interview Wooden offered a few random opinions of UCLA basketball, past and present.

"We lost to North Carolina State for one simple reason. We didn't execute. It wasn't because we weren't trying.

"The Walton Gang lost some of its motivation as seniors but that's to be expected. They listened but they didn't hear. And that was my fault, not theirs. I should have made them hear."

"Ralph Drollinger (Walton's heir apparent) will, I think, in two years be in what the pros call the million-dollar class of centers. I will be surprised if he isn't, anyway."

"I'm contemplating some major changes in our style of play. It won't be what we used with Alcindor and Walton and it won't be our old high post offense, either. It will be more a combination of those things."

Most days working on a line crew is hard, but pleasant work. On others, it's a biting wind that numbs your ears, or a cold rain trickling down your neck. It can be going back out at night after a long day, or giving up a weekend with your family.

Sometimes it means working long hours in hazardous conditions restoring service after a devastating storm.

It's a demanding job, and one that builds pride. Pride in knowing people are depending on you to keep electric power flowing into their homes and businesses.
